How Solid Is the South?
So the Elephant Died
Mohammed Won't Come
Exhibiting the Dungeons

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE hitherto "solid South" worries Democrats, and the "solid rock-republican" state of Pennsylvania worries the Republicans.

A surprising poll taken in Texas, annually 4 to 1 Democratic, shows Hoover and Smith running even in a new vote.

In North Carolina the campaign is degenerating into an open religious fight. One Democratic manager finds the feature of the campaign, the opposition to Governor Smith because he is Catholic, "most difficult to deal with."

It ought to be dealt with adequately by asking those conducting a religious fight to read in the Constitution of the United States, that part referring to religion.

SAN NIRA, Burmese Christian, took a sacred white elephant on a journey to London. That is profane, as bad as if you took the Grand Lama of Tibet and made him turn wheat cakes in a restaurant window.

The sacred white elephant, returned to Burma died of chagrin and humiliation, according to his worshippers.

On the same day San Nira murdered with pickaxe and sledge hammer his roommate, Said Ali, also a Mahout.

THE Burmese will rejoice in this "proof" that their religion is powerful.

Nobody will tell them that their elephant was white only because it lacked pigment. It's name, by the way, was Pa Wa.

THE Bible says you mustn't make any graven image of the Deity.

The Koran, said to have been written for Mohammed by an intelligent, educated Jew and made up of various religions, went a step farther. It says you mustn't make a graven image of anybody.

KEMAL PASHA, disregarding Mohammed and Allah, erects in Constantinople a monument to honor republican rule in Turkey. They figure of Kemal himself stands out in a bronze group.

SOME Turks will expect Mohammed to ride down on his white horse Alborak and destroy that monument. When the Turks took Constantinople, Christians gathered before the great mosque of St. Sofia, believing that Allah would destroy the Turks at the last moment.

They didn't appear and St. Sofia is still a Mohammedan mosque. Mohammed on Alborak won't appear either.

THE Czar's dungeons where prisoners died slowly in cells below the level of the River Neva and the execution rooms where political prisoners were beaten to death with the knout, are opened to the public by Russia's new government as an interesting relic of czarism.

This should persuade Russians not to bring the cars back, however they may feel about Bolshevism.

YESTERDAY in many churches, services were devoted to thanks for today's signing of the peace treaty in Paris.

It might have been a good idea to wait and see what the peace treaty really means before praying too hard. Europe thinks it means that the United States in spite of itself will be from now on tied up with the League of Nations. If it does mean that, the state should defeat it.

IN Minnesota prohibition officials threaten to padlock wet homes.

Quite a surprise for the Minnesota plowman, homeward plodding his weary way, or children from the public schools to find the front and back door padlocked, and be compelled to sleep in the garage.

One way to kill a thing is to make it ridiculous.

SEVEN thousand miles happens to be the distance in a straight line from the Pacific ocean. Flights are made that trip ought to interest us. We haven't any air ministry, but government doesn't realize that, either. In the world, depends on private individuals to develop the airplane. We may pay for that some day, and be compelled to call on British airplanes to help us, as we had to call on British ships to help us in the big war.

What we are saving now on airplanes may cost a thousand dollars for one day.

WHATEVER men may think of Russia's government they must admit that it is progressive.

It will substitute the metric system, which can be understood by any child, for abolishing old weights and measures.

This country needs the metric system, but lacks intelligence or will to adopt it.

HAWAII'S census shows that Japanese no longer dominate the foreign population. There are now more Filipinos, 51,870 of them, against 52,418 Japanese.

Whites are few in number, but control most of the real money.

TWO BIRD IN NUMBER
New York, Aug. 27—Two men were being held in connection with yesterday's shooting of a woman in New York, 25. The woman was found in a Brooklyn grocery with her throat cut. Police arrested Sam Smith, 40, and Edward Halloran, 30, both of Brooklyn, on charges of homicide in connection with Smith's death.

AUTO CRASH VICTIM DIES AT HOSPITAL

Geo. Kramer, Pittsburgh, Succumbs After Accident Near Caledonia

SKULL FRACTURED

Two Companions Slightly Injured: Car Ditched When Steering Gear Locks

George Kramer, 20, of Pittsburgh, was the victim of a fatal automobile accident about 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning on the Caledonia pk., west of Caledonia.

The youth died of a fractured skull at 6 o'clock this morning at City hospital. His two companions, Nicholas Cook and George Gossek, both of Pittsburgh, sustained only minor injuries.

The accident occurred when the steering gear of the Ford touring car in which the three were riding locked, throwing the car into the ditch at the right side of the road. Kramer was thrown from the car.

The three, headed towards Marion were attempting to pass another car when the accident occurred. Gossek was driving.

Kramer and his two companions were enroute to Chicago, where they expected to find work. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kramer, of Pittsburgh, both of whom are dead. He was not married and has no sisters nor brothers.

Funeral service will be conducted at the W. C. Boyd funeral home, South Main st., at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning by the Rev. Earl L. Holliday, pastor of Emmanuel Baptist church. Burial will be in Marion cemetery.

TRAFFIC DEATHS IN STATE ON DECREASE

Auto Crashes Caused Most of Fatalities Over Week-End

Tragic deaths in Ohio over the past week-end were caused in the main by auto crashes, a state-wide check by International News Service today revealed. The number of violent deaths showed a decrease over the number compiled last week.

Drownings were the second largest in death causes it was learned. Among those meeting death over the week-end were:

Marion: George Kramer, 20, Pittsburgh, died in a hospital here from fractured skull received when steering wheel of car locked and ditched his car.

Columbus: Donald Daley, 21, Nelsonville, died in a hospital of injuries received when run down by automobile. Cincinnati: Edward Gosmeyer, Jr., 5, was struck and killed by a car driven by hit-skip motorist.

Dayton: Kenneth E. Winchell, 12, died in a hospital of a broken neck when car driven by George Counter, 40, Dayton, and Carl Arnett, 19, West 31st, collided near Tipppecanoe City. Roland Lane, 14, Findlay, was also killed.

Xenia: John Mitchell, 39, killed when struck by auto at a filling station. Ironton: Ray Hager, Huntington, W. Va., was killed when thrown from his motorcycle.

Cleveland: Miss Joyce Cramer, 18, was fatally injured when hit by an automobile, allegedly driven by William Aeneis, 23.

THREE DROWNED

Outboard Motorboat Overturns in Lake Erie Near North Bass Island

Sandusky, Aug. 27—Three men were drowned when an outboard motorboat in which they were riding overturned in Lake Erie, between North Bass Island and Sugar Island, late last night, it was learned here today.

The victims were: Al Kessler, 34, and Carl Kessler, 23, brothers of Sandusky; and William O'Malley, 30, of Middle Bass Island. Ted Sanderson of North Bass Island, the fourth member of the party, was rescued, unconscious, but resuscitated and was recovering rapidly today.

None of the bodies had been recovered this morning.

AUTOIST HELD

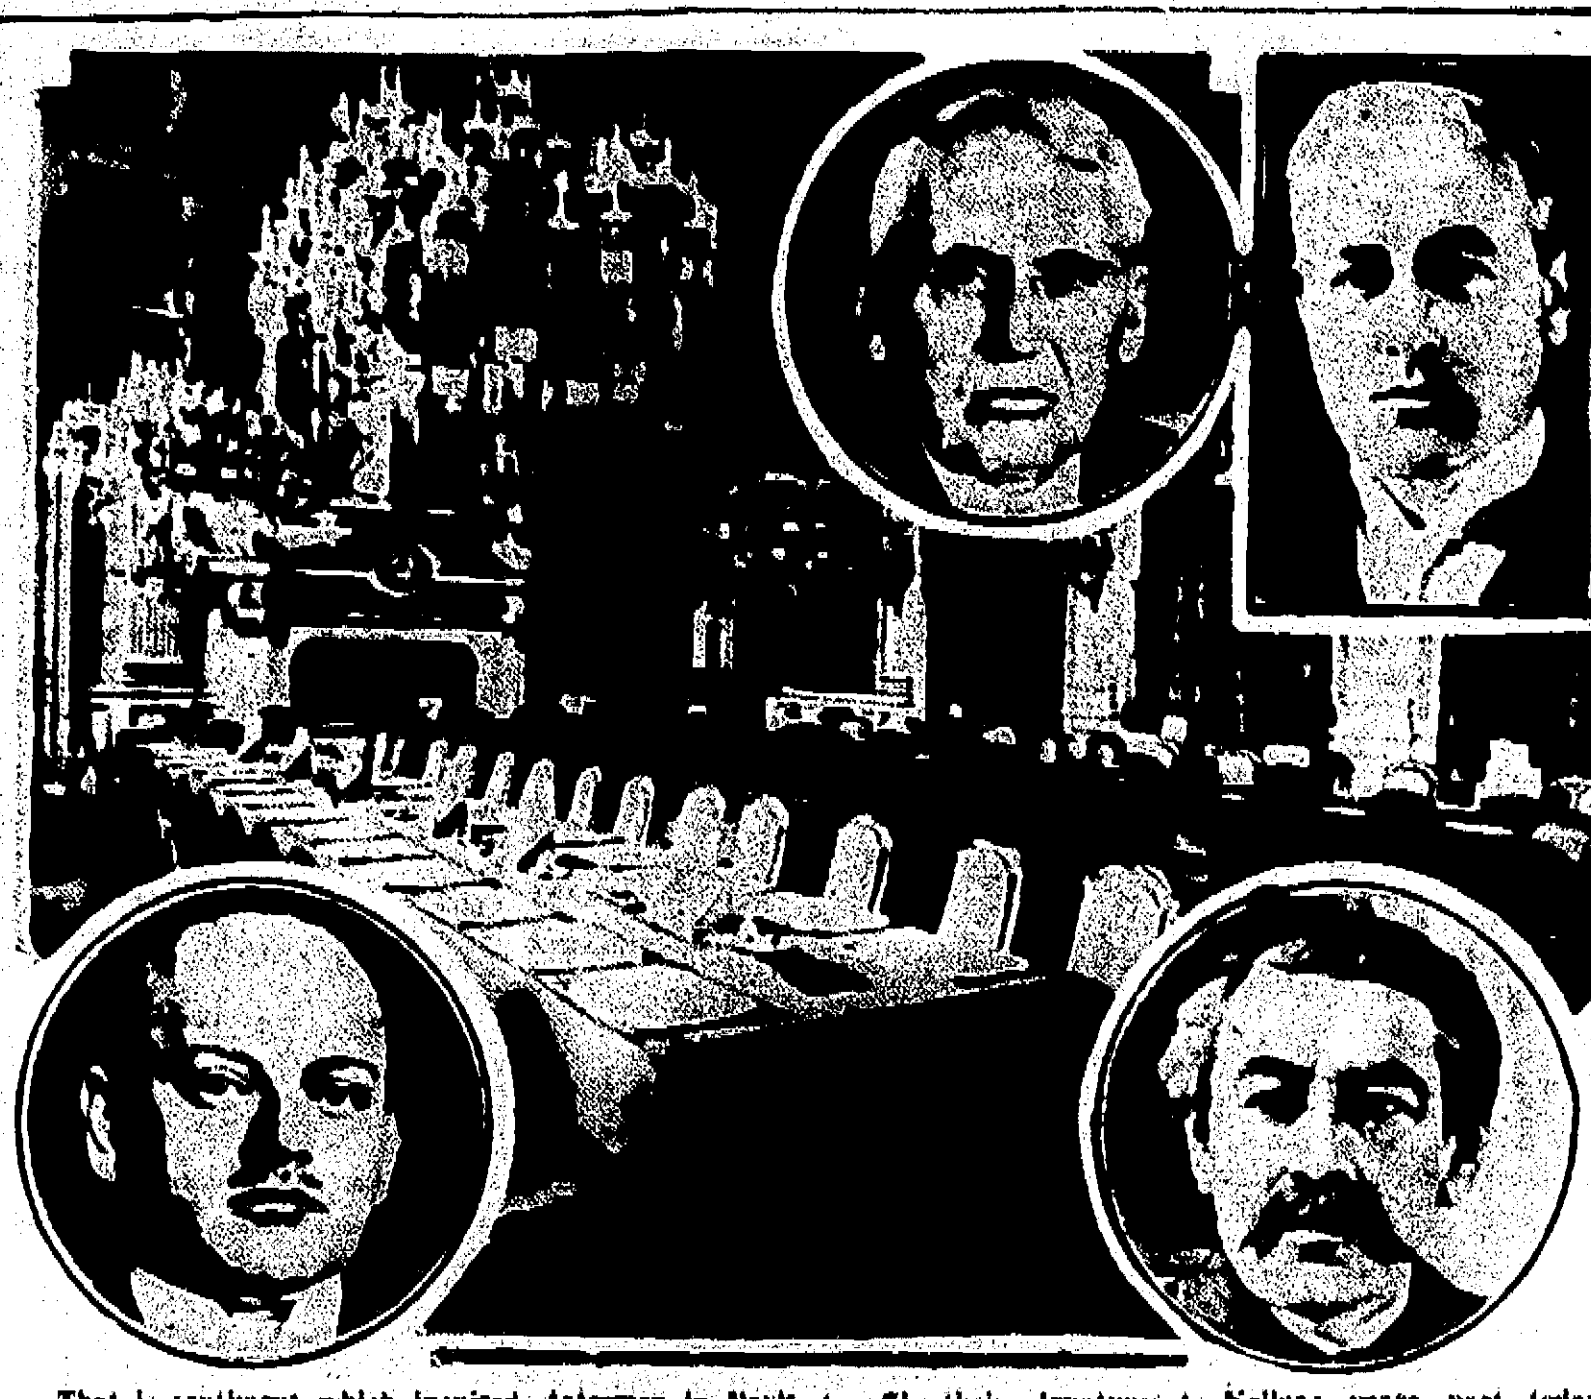

Man Declares Body of Victim Fell From Car, Frightened Him

Columbus, Aug. 27—Sanford Hawthorne, 24, Ashton, W. Va., was being held in the county jail here today pending investigation of a manslaughter charge for the death of Donald Daley, 21, Nelsonville, in a hospital early yesterday morning.

It is claimed by county officials that Hawthorne's machine struck and ran over Daley late Saturday night. Hawthorne is said to have admitted his car did hit Daley and that he drove to take Daley to a hospital but that the body fell from the car when the door flew open, and that he became frightened and checked his machine and ran.

He was arrested in a nearby town here yesterday.

FLOOD TOLL IN NEW YORK FIVE

Property Damage Reported Tremendous; High Water Follows Cloudburst

Ellenville, N. Y., Aug. 27—Floods resulting from a cloudburst were today believed to have taken a toll of at least five lives.

Property damage is tremendous. Many bridges have been washed away and 20 persons were reported missing. Communication has been disrupted and it is feared the flood toll may be greater.

Charles Lavery, 50, of Paterson, N. J., was drowned when he attempted to escape from his automobile when it was engulfed by the swirling waters on a road near here, according to Chief of Police Ross.

Lavery was accompanied by an unnamed companion who reached higher ground in safety. His body was not recovered early today.

Saves Wife, Drowns
At Monticello, N. Y., according to the Ellenville police, a man named Blati was drowned after carrying his crippled wife to safety. The bungalow of the drowned man was in the direct path of the raging current.

Three persons were reported drowned near Accord when their automobile was overturned by the swollen waters of a creek near the road upon which they were traveling. According to reports a bridge over the creek was washed out and the driver attempted to ford the small stream but miscalculated its depth and velocity. All three were trapped in the car.

Thirty-five boys stranded on an island in Roundout creek were rescued early today. They are members of the junior naval reserve in the care of a man named Zinner.

PIONEER DIES

Joseph Jeffrey, 92, Columbus Manufacturer, Succumbs

Columbus, Aug. 27—Joseph Jeffrey, 92, pioneer Columbus manufacturer and chairman of the board of directors of the Jeffrey Manufacturing Co., died at his home here early today.

Advancing age was ascribed as the cause of his death.

Funeral service and interment will be held here Thursday.

As chairman of the board of one of the largest manufacturing plants of mine machinery in the world, Jeffrey served in an executive capacity for many years.

U. S. CONSUL DIES

Berlin, Aug. 27—Hamilton C. Clark, United States consul at Frankfurt, died suddenly of heart disease while on a fishing trip. Although death occurred Saturday, news of it was not received here until today.

Roundup of Underworld Started in Akron After Councilman is Threatened

Leader of Investigation into Vice Conditions Twice Target; Bullet Fired at Him and House Set Afire; Gas Jets Opened in Previous Attempt

Akron, Aug. 27—A roundup of underworld characters in an attempt to run down the kummen who last night tried to assassinate Councilman Kyle Ross, leader of an investigation into vice conditions here, was in progress at police headquarters here today.

Last night was the second time the underworld has struck back at him since he launched his probe into the activities of gangsters and bootleggers here. Ross admitted today.

The councilman has had a series of floodlights installed in his backyard for protection. Last night, shortly before midnight, his wife was awakened when she heard a prowler on the basement stairs. She awoke her husband, who procured his revolver and went into the kitchen.

Flies at Frontiers
"Take that," came a voice from the rear porch and a bullet crashed through the kitchen door striking the wall, near Ross.

The councilman snapped on his floodlights illuminating the yard and ran onto the porch, where the first shot was fired from. He shot at a flame, lurking in the shadows of a nearby garage. The man fired from the shadows and Ross returned the fire.

By this time a neighbor, Ed Hardesty, awakened by the shooting, and aware of what was happening, had thrown up a bedroom window and fired a shot from a rifle at the prowler, who then fled.

Ross had by then discovered that the basement of his house was afire. The walls had been soaked with gasoline and ignited, a subsequent investigation disclosed. The fire department was summoned and the blaze quickly extinguished.

Friday night, Ross had a narrow escape from death when intruders turned on the gas jets in his home and threw off a main switch, cutting off the electricity. Ross stepped into the house later, pressed an electric light button and when there was no light, was about to strike a match when a neighbor, Mrs. Belle Henderson, seized him.

OHIO STATE FAIR UNDER WAY TODAY

This Year's Exposition Is Billed as $5,000,000 Institution

Columbus, Aug. 27—Billed by the management as "the world's greatest agricultural exposition," the Ohio State fair opened its doors here today and launched initial attractions of a program scheduled to extend over a period of eight days.

C. V. Truax, state director of agriculture, and E. H. Campbell, president, state board of agriculture, who delivered brief addresses prior to the official opening, voiced their belief that the largest state fair crowd on record will attend the exposition.

Representing a more comprehensive array of the world's agriculture, art, industry, commerce, aviation, racing and fire stock than has ever been attempted, this year's fair is a $5,000,000 institution, exposition officials declared.

Today has been officially designated "Columbus day" and at an early hour more than 300 Columbus children were flocking to the fair to participate in various athletic contests.

PASTOR DIES

Cleveland, Aug. 27—Funeral services were being arranged today for Dr. Andrew Barclay Meldrum, 71, for 23 years pastor of the famous Old Stone church here. Dr. Meldrum died last night in a hospital here after three weeks' illness. The minister's family, consisting of his wife, two sons, Douglas, of San Francisco, and Barclay, of Cleveland, and two daughters, Mrs. Helen Brown, of Mansfield, and Mrs. Lawrence Brown, of Painesville, were at the bedside.

Cost of Operating Public Business Summarized at County Auditor's Office

ESTIMATES FILED

Cover Probable Expense of County, Schools, Townships and Municipalities

It will take approximately $1,575,335 to operate all public offices, departments and schools in Marion county, including the city of Marion, for the year 1929, according to budget estimates which are now being compiled in the office of County Auditor Earl R. Thomas.

Marion city officials have asked the auditor for a total of $501,083 in the budget submitted several weeks ago. Of this amount $210,538 will go into the sinking fund, or bond retirement fund, and the remainder, $281,545, will go into the general fund for running expenses of the municipal offices and departments.

School Budget Incomplete
Marion city school officials have not completed their budget. Figures concerning the city school budget used in compiling the total of $1,575,335 for the county are based on the amount asked for in the 1928 budget submitted a year ago. The city school total for this year was $229,969 and it is regarded as likely that 1929 requirements will be about the same, possibly a little larger.

Marion county has asked for $580,000 for the general and sinking funds for next year. A two mill road levy voted by the electorate will raise $150,000 of the total. Of the $200,000 remaining, $10,000 will go into the sinking fund and $100,000 into the general operating fund.

The townships, villages and public schools, not including the Marion city schools, have asked for a total for all purposes of $304,035. This will be divided as follows: townships, $10,140; villages, $17,044; schools, $207,851.

The township governments want $15,740 for their general funds, $1,785 for their bond retirement, or sinking funds, and $302,420 for their road funds.

The schools want $204,083 for the general funds and $3,447 for the sinking funds.

The total budget for townships, villages and schools shows a decrease for 1929 under 1928 of approximately $7,860. Only in a few cases has there been an increase in the amount asked for and these cases are more than offset by decreases in other places.

There follows a list of the various townships, villages and school districts with the amounts asked for this year:

Townships
Caledonia village schools: 1929, general fund, $17,000; 1928, general fund, $17,015; sinking fund, $2,525.
Grand Prairie township schools: 1929, general fund, $10,000; sinking fund, $1,000.

LOCAL MINISTERS ARE REAPPOINTED

Evangelical Pastors Returned to Pulpits Here for Coming Year

Marion's three Evangelical pastors, the Rev. E. H. Hadenbaugh, the Rev. H. M. Williamson and the Rev. Irvin Kaufman, were reappointed to their local charges for the coming year at closing sessions of the annual Ohio conference of the Evangelical church yesterday in Toledo.

Mr. Hadenbaugh was returned to the pastorate of Calvary Evangelical church, Mr. Williamson to Oakland Evangelical church and Mr. Kaufman to Greenwood Evangelical church. The Rev. James Campbell was also reappointed to the pastorate of Salem Evangelical church, south of here.

With the exception of Mr. Campbell, who is returning to his home of Leipsic, Ohio, the three pastors here are returning to Marion last night.

Clark Davis, of Leipsic, was returned to the pastorate of the Marion Evangelical church, south of here.

Local ministers, in addition to the persons mentioned, are Mr. W. E. Johnson, of Marion, and Mr. W. E. Johnson, of Marion, and Mr. W. E. Johnson, of Marion.

15 NATIONS SIGN PACT TO FOREGO WAR

Two-Thirds of World's Fighting Power Agree in Kellogg Treaty Never Again to Take Up Arms; Invite Rest of World

Text of Agreement Eagerly Listened to by Representatives of Countries Participating; Salles Des Horloges Scene of Historic Event

Paris, Aug. 27—Through the signing of a multilateral treaty renouncing military force as an instrument of national policy, 15 nations, representing two-thirds of the world's fighting power, agreed today never again to go to war. The rest of the world was invited to take the same pledge.

The scene of this historic event was the Salles des Horloges in the French foreign office on the Quai d'Orsay, where the League of Nations was born under the sponsorship of Woodrow Wilson, then president of the United States.

The participants in the ceremony composed the most distinguished group of plenipotentiaries since the signing of the Versailles peace treaty.

Kellogg Outstanding Figure
The solemnity of the occasion was reflected in the attitude of the signatories themselves and the few hundred fortunate persons who were able to gain admittance to the great hall. They witnessed the consummation of what is regarded in Europe as the most powerful and far reaching step yet taken to abolish war and insure universal peace.

Frank B. Kellogg, American secretary of state, who carried on negotiations for the treaty, was one of the outstanding figures at the conference. Next to him stood Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, who had originally proposed an anti-war treaty.

In keeping with the spirit of the occasion there was no military display. The nearest approach to it was the presence on the Quai d'Orsay of the garde republicaine, which saluted each of the foreign ministers and ambassadors as he arrived at the foreign office.

Inside the Salles des Horloges, the signatories took their places around a large horse shoe-shaped table, covered with red baize.

At Center of Table
M. Briand and Mr. Kellogg had places at the top and center of the table. Chief interest centered upon these two men who had inaugurated and carried out the plan for a world treaty renouncing war.

It was an historic moment as the delegates faced these two statements who had labored ceaselessly for 15 months to bring about this peace pact. At 3 o'clock Foreign Minister Briand formally called the brilliant assemblage to order and welcomed the plenipotentiaries on behalf of the government of France. He described briefly the efforts that had gone into the making of the treaty about to be signed and then called for the reading of the document itself.

Both the English and French texts were read, and although the signatories gathered about the big red baize table, the reading was not interrupted.

Mr. Hadenbaugh was returned to the pastorate of Calvary Evangelical church, Mr. Williamson to Oakland Evangelical church and Mr. Kaufman to Greenwood Evangelical church. The Rev. James Campbell was also reappointed to the pastorate of Salem Evangelical church, south of here.

With the exception of Mr. Campbell, who is returning to his home of Leipsic, Ohio, the three pastors here are returning to Marion last night.

Clark Davis, of Leipsic, was returned to the pastorate of the Marion Evangelical church, south of here.

Local ministers, in addition to the persons mentioned, are Mr. W. E. Johnson, of Marion, and Mr. W. E. Johnson, of Marion, and Mr. W. E. Johnson, of Marion.

WILDNESS GIVES EAGLES VICTORY

Seven Hits Obtained Off Kimbro As Locals Win Over Columbus Colored Nine, 7-5

Fish Not So Effective Against Keystones; Seventh Inning Battering Spree Sends Marion to Victory on Home-
Stretch; Tournery Next Sunday

BY EDDIE SCHROEDER
ALTHOUGH Marion Eagles received only seven hits while their opponents were collecting 11 safeties, the local boys defeated the Columbus Keystones yesterday afternoon by a score of 7 to 5.

A seventh-inning rally saved the day for Marion. Collecting four runs off three hits, two walks, and a hit batsmen in the seventh, the Eagles overcame a 4 to 2 lead piled up by the visitors earlier in the contest and put the game on ice. Each team scored a run in the eighth after the rally had done the real damage.

Kimbro of the Keystones held Marion to three hits during the first six innings but blew sky high in the seventh. When he again hit his stride the game was lost. He was one of the most uncertain pitchers to visit Lincoln Park this season. After hitting three batters in the first two innings he settled down and hurled great ball for four stanzas. Then he again began shooting them at the inside of the plate, plugging one man in the ribs and walking two others. The heat of the hits well scattered but his wildness ruined the day for him.

Fish Settles Down
The colored boys knocked Fish's deliveries into every nook and corner of the grounds during the earlier innings. After the fifth frame, however, the Marion hurler settled down and the Keystones found it harder going.

Marion started off with a bang. But after getting two hits and scoring one run in the initial frame they were helpless before the air-tight fielding of the Keystones. They didn't again get going until the sixth when a three-bagger by Steinbeck sent Fish across the plate with the second count.

In the meantime Columbus was running wild. After being held scoreless for the first two innings, the Keystones bunched hits and marked up two runs in the third. Although they were credited with two more safeties in the fourth inning, a double play by Pine, Bacon and Conroy cut short the rally. Two more counters came in the fifth, however, when Moore, Jack, and Kimbro each hit a double for the visitors.

Howans Rally in Seventh
Then, with the score standing 4 to 2 against them, the Eagles staged their seventh-inning comeback and it was all over but the exit. Howans led off with a double, Conroy walked, and Bacon filled the sacks when Kimbro hit him. Price's single scored Howans, and Sharrack walked, forcing in Conroy for the second run of the inning. Bacon was forced out at home by Price's infield hit but Sharrack and Price scored when Fish dropped a single over the third baseman's head. Longshore brought the rally to a close with a strikeout.

The Keystones made a brave attempt to come back in the eighth but were stopped with only one run. To make things more certain, the Eagles chalked up another in the last of the eighth and held their opponents scoreless in the ninth.

The Keystones had a smooth playing outfit with only one weak spot. Boggs, the visiting third sacker, played a rotten game and had much to do with the defeat of his team. The local crew played a nice game both at bat and in the field. Rizer was ill and unable to appear. He pitched a third with Longshore taking left field.

Tournery Next
A baseball tournament, with Delaware, Highland, Eastern and Marion taking part is scheduled for next Sunday at Lincoln Park.

Local League Play Ends This Week

COMMERCIAL TEAMS PLAY ON THREE NIGHTS TO FINISH SEASON

Hocking Valley Files Protest Against Steam Shovel Nine

MARION sport fans will have plenty of time to occupy their thoughts during the next several weeks with the little world series in local recreation ball circles close at hand and the race in the National and American leagues at a crucial stage.

League play in the city recreation ball circles will end this week with contests scheduled for four nights. The Commercial league will make an attempt to clean up its schedule by playing three nights while the Industrial league fight will be settled Thursday night.

In the Commercial league the Eagles need two more games to clinch the title, being trailed by the Steam Shovel. The Shovels must win the balance of the games, while the Eagles lose to take the flag. This is considered unlikely as the lodgement have not been defeated so far this season.

The Eagles will face the Isaly Dairies, Erie Clerks and Marion Stars in that order this week. Their schedule calls for no super human efforts to win two of these games.

A protest by the Hocking Valley may change the complexion of the industrial league fight. The Eagles need one more game to clinch the title, being trailed by the Steam Shovel. The Shovels must win the balance of the games, while the Eagles lose to take the flag. This is considered unlikely as the lodgement have not been defeated so far this season.

The little world series is slated to get under way on Tuesday, Sept. 4. Games will be played on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday of the first week and every other day starting on Monday the next week. It is likely that plans will be completed for the opening of the season with the exception of the selection of umpires at the commission session Tuesday night.

The schedule for this week follows:
Monday—Kappas vs. Kiwanis at Fairfield; Marion Star vs. K. of P. at Shovel; Isaly vs. Eagles at Silk Mills; Erie Clerks vs. Shovel at Lincoln.
Wednesday—Kappas vs. Erie Yardmen at Silk Mills; Eagles vs. Erie Clerks at Central; Isaly vs. Star at Fairfield; Shovel vs. Kiwanis at Shovel.
Thursday—Shovel vs. C. D. & M. at Lincoln.
Friday—K. of P. vs. Shovel at Silk Mills; Erie Clerks vs. Kiwanis at Lincoln; Eagles vs. Star at Central; Isaly Dairy vs. Erie Yardmen at Fairfield.

STEAL MOTOR

Thieves Escape With Engine of Regatta Winner

Marietta, Aug. 27—The winning speed boat of the Charles G. Dawes gold trophy cup in the Marietta regatta held here Saturday will not be entered in the Detroit regatta next week, as was planned by the owner, Hen Cole, Gurr, Ind. It was announced today. Unless certain thieves are apprehended.

The motor of the boat was stolen sometime yesterday from the regatta show tent where the boat had been placed on display following the race. Police throughout the Ohio river district have been notified of the theft.

YOUTH WINS

Cleveland, Aug. 27—The Point Judith, R. Fans Pay Final Tribute To City's Greatest Player

TWENTY dollars was received yesterday afternoon from Marion baseball fans for flowers for John "Dummy" Ryann, 70, widely known Marion ball player in the '80s and '90s, who died at his home here Saturday morning. Jimmy Runzo "passed the hat" and received the contributions.

"Dummy" Ryann was one of the greatest baseball players ever turned out by Marion. He started his career with the old Mohawks and later played on the Marion Stars. He was a member of the Columbus American Association team for a couple of seasons and closed his league activities by playing first base for the Minneapolis Millers.

While with the Stars, Ryann and "Reddy" Mack formed a battery that was hard to beat. "Dummy" was just as good behind the bat as he was in the pitcher's box. Behind the bat he used only a common leather driving glove on his left hand and a canvas glove with the fingers cut out on his right. He played first base barehanded.

The collection for flowers was taken up yesterday afternoon at Lincoln park before the Marion Eagles-Columbus Keystones contest.

NORTHWESTERN OHIO TENNIS TOURNAMENT WILL OPEN SEPT. 1

Marion Players Expected To Enter Three-Day Meet in Lima

Lima, Aug. 27—The annual Northwestern Ohio tennis tournament will be held at the Lost Creek tennis club here three days, September 1, 2 and 3. Players from Toledo, Fort Wayne, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Dayton, Lima, Marion and other cities are expected to enter.

Conant Ohl of Toledo has won the singles championship during the last few years and Hol Bradley, another Toledoan, has figured prominently as champion and runner-up at various times during the seven years of the tournament's history.

However, Bradley and Ohl will have a real battle to defend their laurels this season for they will have competition from prominent racket wielders from all sections of the state.

Lima players have had a strenuous season of competition in tournament and inter-city matches and expect to make their strongest bid for the championship since 1924 when Lem Baker won his way to the finals.

Is now in Oklahoma but this city will be well represented by Russell Bixel, Jim Conroy, Bud Greenlund, Don Adkins, Addins, Bixel and Conroy took part in the Western Clay court championship at Dayton and the Indiana State tournament at Fort Wayne. In the two tournaments they competed against such players as Elmer Hart of Chicago, Gordon Lum, Chinese star, Walter Rutman of India, and Keith Gledhill of California, western junior champion.

Many players unable to leave their business for other tournaments will be able to compete in the northwestern this year since the three days for which it is scheduled are practically holidays, September 2 and 3 fall on Sunday and Labor Day.

Entries may be sent to John Bixel, manager of the tournament, 212 N. Washington at Lima, Ohio. The meet is sanctioned by the U. S. L. T. A. A number of Marion players including Ted Cunningham, Art Yazel and T. M. Cunningham, are expected to enter.

Losing Streak of Giants Run To Four Games When Homer Gives Dodgers Win

Red Lucas Hurts Cincy to Victory Over Pirates; Phillies Help Out St. Louis; American League Race Unchanged as Yanks Hold Three-Game Lead

By BERNARD MULLADY

NEW YORK, Aug. 27—The National league pennant race was closer than the finish of a marathon dance derby today with only four and a half games separating Cincinnati in fourth place from the front-running Cardinals. The Giants, in second place, had a percentage lead over the Cubs, but by a freak of the figures, no advantage at all in games won and lost.

The Giants ran their losing streak to four straight by kicking away a close game with Brooklyn which ended in the tenth when Bissoneite hit a home run off Hubbell. The final score was 4 to 3. Hubbell held the Dodgers to seven hits. However, he could not fielded like a pair of graminar school boys and were responsible for two Brooklyn runs. The Giant's morale showed the effect of the three drubblings they took in Pittsburgh.

Reds, 4; Pirates, 3
The Pirates also lost ground at Cincinnati. Red Lucas, who beat the Giants last week, held the Waner boys and company to eight scattered hits and shut them out until the ninth inning when they scored three runs.

The status quo was maintained in the American league where the Yankees are clinging grimly to a three-game lead over the Athletics. Main kept the Yanks and Tigers idle at New York, and the Athletics had an open date. The only game played in the younger league, and it was of minor importance, except to individual records, saw Washington score a 5 to 1 victory over Cleveland.

Braxton, who used to be a Yankee himself, let the Indians down with five hits and the performance probably stirred memories for Miller Huggins, who needs a good left-hander on his gilling pitching staff.

The Yanks will meet the Tigers in a double header today and Zachary, recently exhumed from the Senators, is scheduled to start in one of the games. The Athletics will entertain the White Sox. The other two games—Cleveland at Washington and St. Louis at Boston—are merely for the sake of playing out the schedule.

Plans for Life With Circus Collapse as Officers Return Girl and Man to Marion

With their hopes of playing together in the circus shattered, Irene Slob, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Slob, 1014 North Main st., and Niles Peters, 21, of Syracuse, N. Y., today awaited hearing before Probate Judge L. B. McNeal, to take place late this afternoon.

The girl is in the county detention home and Peters is being held at county jail, following their arrest Saturday at Toledo and their journey here in company with L. B. Allen, county probation officer, and J. L. Lillom, Marion county business officer. The two officers went to Toledo Saturday after the couple.

First Met Last Year—Peters was playing in a carnival here last year when he met Irene, he told local officers. Then he joined the Miller 101 Ranch wild west show and while again playing in this city Friday saw the girl in the audience. When the train rolled out of Marion for Toledo late Friday night, there was a glitish form curled up among the Indian women, one of Peters' riding costumes covering the dress she wore.

Irene's disappearance was discovered even before the circus train left the city. Two circus marshals stalked menacingly about the canvas under which she was hiding but failed to find her.

The following morning, when the show was unloading at Toledo, they caught her as she crawled out.

Away from Home—Irene had been living away from home. She told Director Margaret Slater, head of the Toledo women's bureau, that she didn't want to go home, that she couldn't get along with her father. She said she and Peters had planned travelling with the circus together.

Peters told local officers that his father was a well-known attorney in the East. He said that he thought the girl was 18 years of age and was no longer a minor so that there would be no trouble. Evidently he did not know her father. She said she and Peters had father told detention home officials that

EXAMINE YOUTHS

Try To Force Himself Into Suite of Governor Smith

Spring Lake, N. J., Aug. 27—While Governor Smith was being closely guarded today a youth test was to be given to Thomas Connahan, 22, Philadelphia electrician, who attempted to force his way into the governor's suite in the Monmouth hotel at 1:30 a. m. It was learned today, as police questioned Connahan, that the Philadelphian also had planned to get a "personal interview with Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential nominee, in the case of Governor Smith. Connahan said he wished to see if Hoover were a "fit man to be president."

Connahan was to be examined by County Physician Clayton. He was held in $1,000 bail after arraignment, and is at the Monmouth county jail. Following Connahan's arrest, police searched his bag, but found only some fishing tackle and a typewriter. He had no weapon.

FIREMAN KILLED IN TRAIN CRASH

Twelve Others Hurt in Head-On Collision South of Toledo

Toledo, Aug. 27.—Vaine Kramer, 30, Columbus Hocking Valley railroad train, is dead today and 12 persons injured, one seriously, as the result of a head-on collision between a passenger train and a northbound freight, three miles south of Walbridge, near here, yesterday.

The injured: Engineer William

Speeth, Columbus, (seriously hurt); F. E. Kozmick, Detroit; Mrs. P. P. Corradale, Toledo; Mrs. Russell A. Walley, Lancaster, O.; Mrs. Charles R. Griffith, Cleveland; R. C. Cohen, Detroit; Miss Helen Field, Columbus; Mrs. A. H. Field, Lansing, Mich.; Margaret Oskafeld, Columbus; R. K. Sheldon, Columbus; A. Wheat, Detroit; and John Williams, Detroit.

With the exception of Speeth, none of the injured received more than a severe shaking up and slight bruises.

The passenger train left Toledo for Columbus at 4:30 a. m. at the time a dense fog obscured vision from the engine cab, and this was blamed for the collision which occurred when the freight pulled out of a siding and crashed into the southbound passenger train.

Both locomotives were wrecked, but only one passenger car left the rails.

The freight was carrying airplane equipment for the Antarctic expedition of Commander Richard E. Byrd. The equipment was badly damaged.

Rosalie's latest addition to her beach wardrobe is a pair of gold lame boots with zipper fasteners, which are now quite the thing to wear with beach pajamas.

Boots are also being worn with another unusual beach garb—the jockey bathing ensemble. Boots are more appropriate here, for the outfit closely resembles a jockey's riding clothes, even to the cap. A monogram on the back replaces the customary number. —Copyright 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

PAPER BOMBED

Village Organ in Chicago Suburb in Vice Fight

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Chicago Heights, a suburb on the south western fringe of Chicago, was in an uproar today over gangland's latest and boldest challenge to law and order.

It was the bombing of the village newspaper, the Chicago Heights Star, an organ that has been active in fighting crime in that district. Practically the entire front of the two-story plant was blown away. Dynamite apparently was the explosive used.

King Williams, part owner and editor of the paper, after viewing the ruins, made the positive statement that the bombing was the result of the paper's editorial policy. The paper opposed the village administration and has been conducting an expose of the gangster-boogie-er-criminal element, Williams said.

The man who lives only to amuse himself has the hardest kind of task to perform.

REUNION ATTENDED BY MORE THAN 1,000

Rough Gathering Held at West Union; Marion Gets 1930 Meeting

More than 1,000 persons, including a delegation from Marion county, attended the annual reunion of the Roush family and allied groups, held Saturday at the Adams county fairgrounds, West Union, O.

N. E. Arnold, of Marion, chairman of the committee on arrangements, presided during the program which was one of the outstanding features of the gathering.

Through the efforts of Mr. Arnold, Marion was selected as the meeting place in 1930. Point Pleasant, W. Va., was selected as next year's meeting place. Point Pleasant is located at the mouth of the Kanawha river and is regarded by many historians as being situated where the first actual battle of the Revolutionary war was fought.

Members of the family groups in attendance at Saturday's reunion came from practically all states from New York to Missouri. Visitors from distant points were seated at a table 100 yards in length. Dinner was served at the noon hour.

Mr. Arnold was selected chairman of the arrangements committee for the 1929 reunion. Other officers chosen were: Rev. L. L. Roush, Portsmouth, O., president; W. H. Roush, Graham Station, W. Va., vice president; Ralph Roush, Parkersburg, W. Va., secretary; Henry W. Roush, New Haven, W. Va., treasurer.

Program of Addresses

The program included invocation by the Rev. L. L. Roush, welcome address, attorney Robert H. Roush, West Union, W. Va., response for the Roushs of West Virginia; Graham Station, W. Va.; response for Ohio, N. E. Arnold; greetings from the Willits to the Roushs; Edgar Ervin, Columbus; closing address, the Rev. Mr. Roush, Hillsboro, O.

It is expected that approximately 1,200 will attend the 1930 reunion at this city, to be held at Garfield park.

It was announced that a history of the Roush family group, being compiled by Mr. Arnold and the Rev. L. Roush, will be off the press and ready for distribution in October. The historical record will date back approximately 250 years.

OPENS INQUIRY

Sixteen Now Dead as Result of Subway Crash

New York, Aug. 27.—With the death list increased to 16, District Attorney Jacob H. Banton today will open the formal investigation to fix the responsibility for the deaths and for the injury of 100 passengers in the interborough subway wreck here Friday.

William S. Baldwin, subway maintenance foreman who was arraigned on a homicide charge Saturday and released under $10,000 bail, will be questioned in court on Sept. 17. District Attorney Banton, who plans to question several witnesses today, has received the report of the personal investigation of Mayor James J. Walker.

The death of Elizabeth Shebold of Brooklyn, New York City, after her father and brother had vainly submitted to a blood transfusion, increased the fatalities due to the wreck to sixteen. Twenty-one injured persons remain in the hospital today and it is feared that some of these may die.

TWO GO TO SMITH

Canon Man and Californian Shift on Prohibition Question

New York, Aug. 27.—Democratic headquarters today announced the conversion of two additional "life-long Republicans" to the support of Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

One from California and one from Ohio, both acknowledged their swing to have been inspired by Governor Smith's advocacy of modification in his acceptance speech.

W. M. Naugle, prominent Canon, Ohio, banker and steel operator, declared in a letter to Franklin D. Roosevelt, a member of the Democratic executive committee, that "moral courage is much greater virtue than physical courage. I am, therefore, supporting Governor Smith. National prohibition as at present constituted is unsound in principle."

Brig. Gen. W. D. Potter, president of the San Francisco community chest committee, in a letter to H. H. McPike, California Democratic chairman, declared that "Prohibition is making a nation of hypocrites and I refuse longer to be a party to the proceeding. My conception of true Americanism compels me to cast my lot with Governor Smith."

INVESTIGATE HANGING

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 27.—Coroner Edwin C. Ganzhorn was investigating today the hanging of an unidentified man about 60. The body was found suspended from the limb of a tree about a mile from the city. According to officers, the body had been hanging for at least three months. The man had been fairly well-dressed. His cap has a Silmer, O., mark.

Probably no man spends as much consolation in his lifetime as the man who does the painstaking writing of the obituaries in the old home town paper. He, likewise, deserves flowers.

FOOT SLIP FATAL

Car Jumps and Five Bullets End Man's Life

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Ben Benjamin, 33, is dead from bandit bullets because his foot slipped.

Benjamin was returning to his home early today with Max Kleiger and Sam Gluskin, associated with him in the carnival, when a car drew alongside of them. A man waved a revolver from the running board of the second car and commanded the carnival men to halt. Benjamin, who was driving, became so excited, that he put on the brakes, halted momentarily, and then his foot slipped on the clutch, and the car jerked forward. Instantly five bullets were sent in his direction, one inflicting a mortal wound in his chest and another going through Gluskin's hat, barely grazing his hair.

WILL ATTEND FAIR

Members of the Agriculture class of the Green Camp centralized school, under the supervision of their instructor,

Roy N. Lovett, will motor to Columbus Thursday where they will attend to visit the Ohio State fair. Their purpose is to visit the barns of live stock and meet the leading breeders and stock showmen of the state. They also plan to attend the night horse show, a feature of the exhibit.

If it is your habit to think about something else when people think you are a good listener, you'll get caught at it.

15 NATIONS SIGN
PACT AGAINST WAR

Two-Thirds of World's Fighting Power Agree Never To Take Up Arms Again

the result of a peaceful and orderly process, and that any signatory power which shall hereafter seek to promote its national interests by resort to war should be denied the benefits furnished by this treaty.

"Hopes that, encouraged by their example, all the other nations of the world will join in this humane endeavor and by adhering to the present treaty as soon as it comes into force, bring their peoples within scope of its beneficent provisions."

Germany Signs

For the first time in 61 years Germany was represented at a diplomatic conference here by her foreign minister, Dr. Gustave Stresemann, acting in behalf of Germany, was the first to sign the treaty. Secretary Kellogg followed for the United States. The other signatories came in the following order: Paul Hymans, Belgian foreign minister.

Aristide Briand, French foreign minister.

Lord Cushenden, representing the British foreign minister. He will also sign for northern Ireland and India.

Mackenzie King, prime minister of Canada.

Senator McLachlan, representing the Australian prime minister.

Sir C. J. Parr, for New Zealand.

J. S. Smit, Union of South Africa.

Count Mazoni, Italian ambassador to France.

August Salek, Polish minister to France.

Edouard Benes, Czechoslovakian foreign minister.

Irish Free State—William T. Cosgrave, president of the Free State executive council.

Japan—Count Uchida, former Japanese premier.

It required only a short time to sign the treaty, which virtually becomes effective at once—after ratification.

There is every indication that all the nations represented here today will officially approve the treaty at the first opportunity. The United States congress is not in session, but it is expected that the treaty will be ratified when the senate meets in December.

Secretary Kellogg was elated over the success of the long negotiations and believes that "the balance of the world will soon accept the treaty."

STRESEMANN NEARS END

Official life of German statesman sought by Campaign

Berlin, Aug. 27.—Signaling of the Kellogg anti-war treaty in Paris this afternoon may be the last important political act of Gustav Stresemann, German foreign secretary. A campaign has been started within the government parties to replace Dr. Stresemann partly on account of ill health and partly on account of the collapse of his reconciliation policy.

It is held that Germany has been put back into the position she occupied before the signing of the Locarno pact as a result of the new entente reached between Great Britain and France.

Dr. Stresemann is blamed also for the failure of Germany to obtain the friendly backing of America.

According to belief in political circles the only thing that can save the official life of the foreign secretary is agreement by the French to evacuate the Rhineland. In view of the adamant French attitude no one believes this will come to pass.

DIES IN MISSOURI

Former Delaware woman hangs self to tree in Kansas City

Miss Eunice May Turner, 42, former Delaware resident, committed suicide by hanging herself on a tree in Cliff Drive, Kansas City, Mo., Saturday, according to word received by relatives. Ill health is given as the cause of the act. She went to Kansas City Aug. 3, where she had been living at a woman's home.

Surviving are the mother, Mrs. M. B. Turner and a sister, Miss Roetha Turner, Cleveland.

ACCIDENT VICTIM BURIED

Funeral services for William Arnold, Mansfield, who was killed in an automobile accident near Ashler, Saturday, were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at St. John's Evangelical church, Mansfield. Burial was made in the Mansfield cemetery.

HUNDREDS FIGHT FIRES IN NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

San Francisco, Aug. 27.—Hundreds of fire fighters still were battling blazes today which were eating into valuable timber lands in northern California. Many new blazes have been ignited by winds and lightning and forestry officials are concentrating every available man for the fire.

National Rifle Matches Will Be Held in Ohio

Camp Perry, Aug. 27.—More than 1,500 marksmen, the pride of the U. S. army, and nearly a thousand civilian contestants were mobilized here today for the national rifle matches, which will be in progress for the next three weeks.

A city of tents houses the contestants, who came here from every corner of the nation. A huge mess hall, capable of seating more than 1,500 persons has been placed at the disposal of the visitors.

HOOVER TO MAP OUT EASTERN CAMPAIGN

Republican Candidate Plunges into Conference with Leaders After Rest

Washington, Aug. 27.—Refreshed by two days rest and apparently in good trim for any kind of political fatigues, Herbert Hoover, the Republican presidential nominee, today plunged into a series of conferences which will decide the immediate future of the Republican campaign on the eastern seaboard.

The first major question to be decided by Hoover and his aides is whether the nominee shall go before the country with an elaboration of his views on labor in a Labor day speech one week from today.

Although Republican leaders boast that Hoover is stronger with labor than any other party candidate since Roosevelt, the bid which Gov. Alfred E. Smith made for the working man's vote in his acceptance address, has caused many advisers to suggest to Hoover that he make it the exclusive subject of one speech.

It is pointed out that both candidates have approved collective bargaining promises a fair deal to labor and recognized the injunction problem, Smith, however, went so much into detail on the injunction question that many Republican leaders believe that he will make a campaign issue of it.

FORMER RESIDENT OF MARION DIES

Henry King, 84, Civil War Veteran, Passes Away in Columbus

Word has been received here of the death of Henry King, 84, father of H. C. King, South Grand av., and Charles King, 828 Woodrow av.

Mr. King passed away at his home in Columbus at 10 o'clock yesterday morning after an illness of about three years. Infirmities of age were believed to have brought about his death.

While he spent the greater part of his life at Peebles, O., Mr. King formerly resided in Marion and had lived in Columbus the last two years. He was a member of the fifty-third Ohio Volunteer Infantry and of the Portsmouth post, Grand Army of the Republic. He served in the Civil war four years. He was a member of the Christian church.

Surviving him are a daughter, Mrs. E. C. Hamilton, of Logan, O., and four sons, Charles, and H. C. King of Marion, Joe King of Columbus, and Hunter King of Seannan, O.

Funeral services will be held early Tuesday afternoon at the Christian church at Peebles, O., where burial will be made. The body will be removed to that place Tuesday morning. Attending from Marion will be Charles King, Mr. and Mrs. Arden Millison, Mrs. Norris Crisinger and Mrs. Scott Apt. Mr. and Mrs. H. C. King are traveling in the south.

SEES VICTORY

New Ohio Republican Committee Chairman Makes Forecast

Dayton, Aug. 27.—Forecasting election of Herbert Hoover, and sweeping G. O. P. victories in state and Montgomery county, Arthur A. Nixon, Dayton, newly selected state chairman of the Ohio Republican central committee, today issued a statement here calling upon Ohioans for united action in support of all Republican candidates.

"With harmonious and united action we will sweep Ohio, elect Hoover and carry Montgomery county entirely by unquestioned majorities," Nixon declared in his statement. "There may have been difference of opinion in primary campaigns throughout the state, but they have faded from the picture and an intensive campaign will be launched throughout Ohio within a short time."

UNITED STATES SURPLUS ON JUNE 30 $398,828,281

Washington, Aug. 27.—The United States government closed the fiscal year on June 30 with a $398,828,281.06 surplus, according to the annual report of H. M. Lord, director of the bureau of the budget, made public today.

The surplus was $198,124,618.61 above the estimate when the budget was submitted to congress.

his arm and told him she smelled gas.

Mrs. Henderson and her son had been asked to watch the house during the councilman's absence. In the afternoon he had been questioning several policemen and suspected bootleggers concerning vice conditions. He was recently appointed by city council to take charge of such a probe.

Mrs. Henderson and her son were to turn on the floodlights in the back yard. He had not detected him as he was about to strike the match, a terrific explosion would probably have resulted. Police did not make the incident public at the time, in the belief that secrecy would aid in clearing it up.

Numerous telephone calls have been received by Ross and police, offering to clear up Friday's attempt on his life. It was revealed today. Police believe that there are two warring bootlegging factions here and that they will be able to capture the warring factions by granting immunity from prosecution to "squealers" from the rival gang. One man in particular was sought today, while many others were being questioned.

Ross said his investigation would continue, and it was reported that he is to be afforded a police guard.

REPORTS DEATH OF ARTHUR SNYDER, 22

Message States Son of Former Marion Man Was Killed in West

Mrs. Ezra Schmeler, 230 Bellevue av., has received word of the sudden death of her nephew, Arthur Snyder, 22, of Livingston, Mont., a grandson of Mrs. Margaret Snyder, who resides at the Schumacher house. As the telegram read that Mr. Snyder had been "killed," relatives here believe his death was accidental and possibly occurred at Yellowstone National park, where he worked during summer vacations.

The body will be taken to Roseman, Mont., for burial. Mr. Snyder was the son of the late Albert Snyder, who formerly resided here. His widowed mother, before her marriage was Miss Leota Porterfield of Ashley. Two sisters also survive.

VISITING PASTORS AT MARION CHURCH

Father Krost and Dr. Dean McFarland Conduct Services at St. Mary's

Two visiting pastors, the Rev. Father Grover Krost of Mundelein, Ill., and Dr. Dean McFarland, of Cincinnati, said two of the masses at St. Mary's Catholic church yesterday morning.

Father Krost, a professor in the college at Mundelein, was a week-end guest of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Garneau, 301 South Vine st. He returned home today.

Dr. McFarland, who recently returned to Marion after concluding his studies at Columbia university, New York city, is spending two weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. McFarland, 253 East George st. He is a teacher at St. Gregory seminary, Cincinnati.

YOUTHS MISSING

Fall To Return After Searching for Companion's Body

Toledo, Aug. 27.—Search for three companions of William Schornbeck, 38, drowned in Lake Erie when he fell out of a power boat eight miles from here yesterday, was being organized today following the non-appearance of the youths whose names are not learned.

According to reports brought in by a fisherman, Schornbeck and the three boys were fishing when Schornbeck lost his balance and plunged overboard, sinking almost instantly.

It was believed the youths then cruised about in an effort to recover the drowned man's body. And that they would return when it darkness overtook them before they succeeded.

Anxiety gave way to fear and a searching party was organized today. However, as hours went by no report was received of the ill-fated fishing party.

MYSTERIOUS BLAST WRECKS STRUCTURE

Damage to Indianapolis Building Estimated at $100,000; Three Are Injured

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 27.—Thousands of persons bound for work downtown today gathered in front of the R. Kirschbaum building to view the damage done by a mysterious explosion that wrecked the building and damaged adjoining structures. First estimates placed the loss at more than $100,000.

Safe from Top to Bottom.

A presidential election year, more than any other, perhaps, ought to convince Republicans of the nation that the best way for them to vote is to mark their ballots to elect the entire list.

The American form of government depends for its success in operation upon two strongly opposed political parties. This plan insures that the party in power must act for the best interest of the people, else at the next election it will be removed from control.

The only catch to this system is when the control of the government is divided into the executive and the legislative branches between the two parties. In such instances, bickering and disputes arise and continue while the public at large suffers. At such a time the accomplishments of an administration dwindle into insignificance.

American voters should realize that if they wish to secure a government which produces beneficial results they must give the control of government to a harmonious group which can work together. Good government depends entirely upon party responsibility.

To make this a sane and logical course to follow, the Republican party from the head of its ticket, Herbert Hoover, down through the list of national, state and district offices, offers a list of candidates who have been chosen on merit and service as the best the party can offer. These men are the choice of a party which from its founding in 1854 has had no other principle than to administer to the needs of the American people.

To maintain this policy of public service for the next few years, the Republican party offers these candidates, selected by the free will of a majority of its members.

There is Herbert Hoover, renowned engineer, splendid business executive, and efficient cabinet officer, whose record in the administration of food to Europe and the relief of the Mississippi flood, stand as examples of his ability. He is the Republican presidential candidate.

There is Charles Curtis, who has so splendidly represented his home state, of Kansas in the United States senate, in which he is recognized the land over as a leader. Mr. Curtis was the candidate of the agriculturist interests of the country at the Kansas City convention for the head of the ticket, and has a great following. Certainly he should prove an excellent candidate for the vice presidency as a running-mate for Mr. Hoover.

There is Senator Simon P. Fess, of Yellow Springs, and former Senator Theodore Burton, of Cleveland, both recognized as two of the most valuable statesmen in the nation. Fess is spokesman of the Coolidge policies, and Burton has a record of public service, and is without superior. They are Ohio's senatorial candidates.

There is Myers Y. Cooper, of Cincinnati, successful business man on a large scale, and an authority on the American home and church. Republicans place him forward for the governorship of Ohio.

There is John T. Brown, of Mechanicsburg, capable legislator in the Ohio assembly. Republicans back his candidacy for lieutenant governor.

There are Clarence J. Brown, of Blanchester, Joseph T. Tracy, of Portamouth, and Bert B. Buckley, of Dayton, all now performing their duties well in the office of secretary, auditor and treasurer of state, respectively. Republicans because of their service in the past again choose them to fill the offices they hold.

There is Gilbert Bettman, of Cincinnati, an outstanding lawyer with a brilliant war record. Republicans would have him attorney general of Ohio.

There are Judges Robert H. Day, of Massillon, and Frank W. Geiger, of Springfield, the former now a member of the Ohio supreme court, and the latter long known in Springfield, as a just judge. These two the Republican party presents for the supreme bench of Ohio.

There is Charles A. Guernsey, of Fostoria, an able attorney, who is the overwhelming choice of the Republican voters of the sixteen counties of the Third judicial district for judge of the court of appeals.

There is Grant E. Mouser, Jr., of our own home city of Marion, whose splendid campaign gave him a plurality in each of the six counties of the Eighth congressional district as the party nominee for member of congress.

And there is Robert L. Rolfe, of Tiffin, whose splendid record during his present term in the Ohio senate brought about his renomination, without opposition, again to represent the seven counties of the Thirtieth-Thirtieth First senatorial district in the upper house of the Ohio general assembly.

There is no occasion to name the various candidates on the Republican county ticket, all of them are so well known to the voters of the county. Four of the twelve are candidates to succeed themselves in office; four others have had experience in the offices they seek and the other four are too well known to need identification within the boundaries of Marion county.

Such are the candidates offered by the Republican party to the voters as qualified and worthy. If elected these men will be placed in positions which will make them responsible for their actions both to the electorate and to the party they represent.

To supplement the Europa and the Bremen, the Columbus is to be equipped with engines capable of driving her across the Atlantic in five days, thus giving the North German Lloyd a weekly five-day service across the Atlantic, as well as a weekly express service between New York and German ports. And thus the cross for speed goes on!

Statistics show that 500,000 snakes, 500,000 alligators and 1,000,000 lizards were killed last year to make shoes, handbags and other articles for the women folks. Think of all that killing to dress those who dress so little!

The fact that the last eastward trip of the Canadian Pacific road's refrigerator freighter, Bearburn, from Montreal to London was made in eight days, ten hours and fifty-four minutes, which is much better time than many passenger liners make over the same route, is not so surprising. The Canadian Pacific also tracks its fast passenger trains to get them out of the way of its refrigerator freights.

There's nothing like perseverance. While it is true that the Chicago police have been unable to locate Joe Salts, wanted for gun-toting, although they have been hunting for him for ninety-nine days, they have located the brewery he has been running meanwhile.

In addition to the seven stowaways set adrift in a small boat off the coast of Ireland, last week, seven were killed and nine others, for four of whom there is little hope of recovery, were overcome by hydrocyanic acid fumes when the steamship, Steel Monitor, was fumigated in Baltimore. A record like that should convince even the most venturesome of the hazard of attempting to steal a passage on the high seas.

The Italian queen wants her son to visit the United States, believing that such a trip is a necessary part of his education. Maybe so. Certainly Queen Marie picked up a lot of ideas over here, but we are not overly certain about their educational value.

The valuation of the public utilities of Wisconsin for taxation purposes has been more than doubled in the last eight years, $30,000,000 having been added last year, but why should they worry? If the situation up there is anything like it is down here, a complacent utilities commission will probably permit them to pass the added taxes along to the consumers.

Since Home Secretary Joynton Hicks has ordered the police of London to measure the tails of all stray dogs captured, the laughter of the inhabitants is said to have been such as to dispel the gloom of the city's heaviest fogs. And yet Mr. Hicks simply seeks to facilitate the efforts of owners in identifying their misadventured animals by the descriptions run in the advertisements of "stray animals taken." It's the way of the world often to greet noble intentions with mocking laughter!

The report of the Chicago crime commission cites the case of a judge under indictment up there for conspiracy to murder and a number of other offenses who has granted ten continuances to one prisoner who is accused of having committed a murder last October. Passing over the indictment, any judge who will grant ten continuances to the accused in a murder case will have to do a lot of explaining to escape the charge that he is not defeating the purpose of the law.

Human Scourge Dying Hard.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
"Captain of the Men of Death." This is the term Hunan applied to dread tuberculosis. No better name could be found to describe this terrible scourge. Statistics say that one-eighth of all the deaths among humans are caused by it.

We have marched forward in our war against this captain. But in the United States and Canada, in spite of our progress, about one-tenth of the deaths are due to tuberculosis.

Domestic animals fall victim to it. Chicken and other fowls, pigs, but particularly the cattle which supply us with meat and milk, are commonly affected.

Fortunately for the human family, cooking destroys the germ and germ-products of tuberculosis. Official inspection makes it improbable that meat from infected animals will reach the homes. But should it be sold by some mischance, its preparation in cooking does away with the danger of infecting the family.

But when we consider milk, we are dealing with another question. Infected milk is responsible for many cases of tuberculosis in children.

It has been estimated by competent students of the problem that ten per cent. of the deaths from this disease are due to what we call "bovine tuberculosis"—that is, from tuberculosis transmitted through the milk of the cow.

When this form of the disease attacks children, the bones and joints are more likely to be involved than the lungs. Bad deformities and loss of future earning power are the results of this affliction.

When you visit a hospital given over to bone and joint diseases you are in an institution where the majority of the patients are paying the penalty of consuming milk from tubercular cows. These little folks are the innocent victims of a preventable accident.

No duty imposed on a parent is more imperative than the obligation to supply pure milk. Without it the danger of tuberculosis is very great.

The public is awakening to the importance of giving the disabled child the proper sort of treatment. Dotting the country are institutions dedicated to the care of little folks who are in the active or quiet stages of this dread disease.

It isn't difficult to control the symptoms of tuberculosis provided it is recognized early, and particularly if it is possible to regulate the diet and daily life of the patient. Institutional care of a sick child, in most instances certainly is superior to the average care in a private home.

There can be no doubt that the crippled and deformed child is better off in a special hospital, unless the home is sufficiently well-to-do to provide the nursing care and necessary apparatus. The well-endowed hospital and home for children of this type afford better chances for restoration to normal, or at least to usefulness.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUESTIONS

V. J. A. Q.—What climates and altitudes are best suited to persons subject to high blood pressure or low blood pressure?

2.—What is the cause of a tired, sleepy feeling upon arising after sleeping for about nine hours every night?

A.—No particular climate in either case.

Editorial Comment.

CRIMINALS AND COURTS.

There is directness and point in reports made public by the Chicago crime commission, as it goes ahead telling the people of that city about conditions in government and the failure of the law, as it is administered, to curb or prevent crime.

Why does crime flourish in Chicago? Here are some facts contained in the last report. There are eighty-nine murder cases on the docket of the crime trial court. One law has been continued twenty-three times, six judges having a part in the continuance.

Another case has been continued sixteen times, with three judges, another thirteen times by one judge, another twelve times, three judges taking part. So it goes through the list, and more than a score of murder cases have not been assigned to any court for trial.

There is no reason why criminals should fear such administration of the criminal laws. In Chicago crime is organized, has its killers who work for hire and take life for a fee, its safe-crackers, and its miscellaneous criminals have taken it as their lot to be ready for service. That is bad enough, but Chicago criminals have aids and friends in official positions. They are weak, incompetent or venal, so they forget the public and the law-abiding people, and bestow their friendship on the criminals who give them aid on election day. Gradually the Chicago crime commission is building up its proof of these terrible conditions. Enough has been made public to arouse the people of the city, but some crime is not completed in one day.—Ohio State Journal.

AVIATION AND FEED PIPES.

Great geniuses have labored long to design the most effective type of wings and adjust them at angles giving them the best results. They have devoted unmeasured effort to features of the motor and the reduction of the ratio between units of engine, weight and units of power produced. Above all, strength, stability, dependance have engrossed all patient thought. However, while all these are important, it seems that a prosaic little detail which is a key point in the success of great undertakings in flight has relatively had small attention. This is the small tube of copper or other metal that conveys gasoline or oil from the tanks to engine cylinders—the feed pipe.

In the Courtney flight nothing failed but this negligible tube, which permitted first, but not then a flowing coat of gasoline to spread over the engine and stern of the craft which, igniting from the exhaust, placed only a flaming plane between its passengers and death. In the ambitious attempt the Polish fliers nothing failed but this sill; pipe, which compelled the fliers to swim the ocean for life when their motor stopped.

Better feed pipes are what aviation needs and must have.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Life of Jules Verne.

BY GARRETT P. SERVANS.

I have just been reading the "Life of Jules Verne," by Albert de La Forge—Jules Verne, that champion of youth and age with his scientific romances; the greatest writer of that kind of literature that has lived. "Across Africa in a Balloon," "From the Earth to the Moon," "Journey to the Center of the Earth," "Michael Strogoff, the Courier of the Czar," "Adventures of Captain Hatteras," "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," "Around the World in Eighty Days," and so on and on, an astounding series of extraordinary tales that taught a little science while giving a great deal of entertainment and pleasure.

Jules Verne bestowed a new species upon the literature of fiction. He gave wings to science that it might soar in the heaven of the popular imagination. As his biographer says, he planned: "Une promenade a travers le cosmos, vu par les yeux d'un homme due XIXe siecle"—a tour of the cosmos, seen with the eyes of a man of the nineteenth century.

Some of the quotations made by the biographer are very significant for instance this from a letter written by Jules Verne to a friend:

"Everything that I invent, all that I imagine, will always fall far below the truth, for there will come a time when the creations of science will leave those of the imagination behind."

We see exact truth of that prediction all around us today; but while seeing it we should withhold no credit from Verne, who, in spirit, invented and set in operation many of the most amazing machines, to which practical science has since his time imparted submarine reality. The airship, the submarine, the motor car, are only the most striking instances of the power of Jules Verne's creative imagination.

What Verne said about Edgar Allan Poe's stories—for which he had the greatest admiration—is an example of penetrating criticism by a sympathetic mind of the work of a genius in many respects similar to its own.

In spite of their extra-terrestrial and super-human beauty I regret that these extraordinary tales remain materialistic in their conclusions. One never feels in them any providential intervention. Poe seems not to admit such intervention, but undertakes to explain everything by physical laws, which, if necessary, he invents. The reader does not find in him an atom of that faith which the incessant contemplation of the supernatural ought to awaken.

Verne, in a letter to his father, uttered an opinion about hazard, or chance, which may be worth thinking over. "The incredibly wild seems to certain persons intellectual liberty," he wrote, "appears to me rather as feebleness of reasoning," and he goes on: "I am always astonished at the satisfaction, a little stupid, which many worthy people take in calling the action of a superior power hazard when it is just as simple and more logical to name it Providence."

These things may come as a surprise to those who have never thought of Jules Verne except as a superb story-teller, full of the vim of capital life.

"Captain Nemo," the hero of "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," seems to have been conceived largely as a representation of Verne's own inner self—which was never quite penetrable to his friends. He loved the sea as a mistress and in his vivid imagination experienced personally all the adventures and saw all the submarine wonders described in his fascinating tale. He himself wrote: "To the question put 6,000 years ago by Ecclesiastes: 'Who has sounded the depths of the abyss?' two men among all men now have the right to reply: 'Captain Nemo and I.'"—Copyright, 1928, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Damascus, "Eye of the East."

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

The next time you sit down to your dinner table covered with fine white damask, think a moment of the city where this beautiful material originated. It is a romantic city, famed in history and story and is, indeed, one of the oldest in the world.

Julian the Apostate called Damascus "The Eye of the East," and it may still be called so, even to this day. It is famed for many things. Here is was that Diocletian established a factory for arms and manufactured those famous swords of Damascus steel which were known throughout the world for their fine keen, elastic blades. The secret of their making was lost when the Arabian conquerors of the Arabian city, Damascus, known for its fruits and flowers. The plums and roses are particularly lovely here, and the famous damask rose, that was brought to England during the reign of Henry the Eighth, is still grown wherever there is a rose garden.

Of course, they still manufacture those exquisite fabrics of cotton and silk known as damasks. But the damask work, which originated here, is not so well known. This is a process by which wood and steel are inlaid with gold and silver, and it is extremely difficult and beautiful.

There is a legend that Mohammed, seeing Damascus from the heights of a nearby mountain, refused to enter the gates of the city, as it seemed to him a veritable Eden and he preferred to reach the other world without even a taste of an earthly paradise.—Copyright, 1928, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

In the Windy City.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Chicago has a slap-bang touch and go. Even a New Yorker geared to high-pressure bucky-buckly is so shocked by the contagion of the hustle and quick step. There is a feeling something might slip off behind you—and often it does.

It would be all right with me if the police here would use another make of wheels. The doleful and long drawn out whoo-see-ee like the sob of a sighing wind. Or the eerie cry of a swamp owl in the dead of night. They are a trifle too funeral for the city's robust manner.

George Rector joined me for breakfast, and I permitted him to pay the check—a quaint old Belgian custom. The man to whom no bodies as well as somebodies genued at the silken ropes of Rector's famous old Broadway cafe is now writing cook books, syndicate juicy recipes and giving lectures on domestic science at halls of learning. Chicago is his birthplace.

When his old friends drop into town he gets lights in corraling them in his apartment to fashion a currie or some other culinary yum that has sent the name of Rector ringing around the world. He is one of the glamorous figures of Broadway's picturesque past.

Chicago would scarcely be Chicago without its blind long-haired fiddler who for years has trusted himself to traffic dangers with an alert fox terrier as his cicerone. A year or so ago a motor car dispatched the faithful pet's soul to the Christian fields, but the old fiddler is carrying on.

"I miss him so," he said, as his eyelids started into blackness of his eternal night. He takes so much pride in their city as the Chicago taxi driver. Here they are mostly strapping young huskies who deserted Mid-West plow handles to go off to the city.

They thrill to piloting the stranger about and pointing out the sights. Mine said his name was Abelen, but added he touched democracy with the concession I might call him "Ab." That he took me from the Congress hotel to the Santa Fe station by the way Lincoln park might have been democratic, but it was not pretty.

Chicago's "Boul Mich" is rightly one of the most famous streets in the world. Fronting Lake Michigan and its rush of swift winds, is a promenade that runs the gamut of human interest. Its north and south vehicular triples with the finest of motor cars. Here one may see Broadway stars enjoying the "Chicago run;" cinema celebrities just in bound for Hollywood; provocative local ladies with sly, engaging winks; men-about-town cattle men in wide Stetsons; dandies from Marshall Field's; dowagers and dowagers pigeons as tame and friendly as those in St. Mark's.

Prairie avenue, which was in other days part of the aristocratic Gold Coast, has gone to seed. Fine mansions have become rookeries and boarding houses dotted here and there with fortune telling parlors, crystal-gazing salons and other mystical abracadabra. Some are in such disrepair they have been completely abandoned, and high weeds clutch laws once trod by the Armours and Swifts and other of the pioneering great. To me it is the saddest street in the world.

Chicago continues to fling ribbon-like roads out in its lake front, providing a Venetian effect that is striking. Fine mansions are now on the lake edge. The Chicago of the Nineties is chiefly a memory.

A friend clapped me on the shoulder LaSalle street and after an exchange of greetings inquired if I would be here long. I purred around cautiously and told him I hoped After all, Chicago is Chicago.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Dispatch from Darlington, Wisconsin, says 300 of the former pupils of Frank Higgins gathered at a picnic to do great honor to the old gentleman. Mr. Higgins is ninety years old. For twenty years Mr. Higgins has been employed in the state capital at Madison, when he arrives for his picnic he is accompanied by the governor of the state. A great life to look back over. How much satisfaction this ninety-year old gentleman must feel as he sees his 300 and more boys and girls grow to successful manhood and womanhood. At the 300 at the picnic are only a few. Mr. Teacher Higgins began back in 1864. The of the young lives he has touched and influenced!

In a few weeks thousands of teachers over the land will be going back to school rooms. But a successful life is assured. Poverty does not really like it. But what a life it is up to even the remote edges of its possibility!

The two young people whose wedding off the companionate marriage talk have recently received the hard jolt of poverty in the new matrimonial experience. Going broke the west coast they had to "bum" their way back to Kansas. But they are still strong companionate marriage, even without money. Both now have jobs.

Poverty is the hard test of marriage. Love and faith and courage can overcome poverty; a successful life is assured. Poverty takes the moonlight out of life—so say nothing of the sunshine—more surely and quickly than anything else.

This country applauds a police department which is active and successful in running down and catching criminals. We have proper praise for police chiefs and smart detectives. We even approve legislation that make law and fast laws to deal with crooks. But we need more than all this is a speeded up clarified court procedure which will deal with crime so fast that murder will no longer be a fairly safe experiment. A young man named Hickman killed a little girl in California many months ago that half the country has forgotten all about it. But Hickman still lives and gets his three square meals a day at the expense of the state. It is now said that he will be hanged—but the hanging has been delayed another four months.

If this crime had happened in England—where such crimes rarely happen—this young man by the name of Hickman would have been dead and buried so long the whole British empire would have forgotten him by this time.

YOUNG PEOPLE MEET

Gallon Churches Await Decision of Lutheran Synod Now in Session

Gallon, Aug. 27.—Union church services were held last night at the First United Brethren church with the Rev. E. C. Thompson of the Baptist church delivering a forceful sermon. Special music was given by the choir of the former church and by the organist Mrs. John Steele.

The Rev. W. H. Laehr of the Whetstone reformed church was the speaker in the Union services of Whetstone which were held at the community school of that district last night. A musical program was given in addition to the preaching service with the Community orchestra under the direction of C. H. Snyder, presenting a variety of numbers, a soprano solo by Miss Dorothy Givins and several selections by the male quartet of the Clyde. The meeting last night was the closing one of a series which has been held throughout the summer months and a business session at which time officers were elected and a secretary's report read, was held.

The Rev. E. H. Zaugg, of Tiffin, occupied the pulpit of the First Methodist church yesterday morning in the absence of the minister the Rev. G. F. Zinn who is on vacation. Rev. Mr. Zaugg brought a message of great interest and as a special musical number Mrs. Donald Townsend, director of the church choir, sang a solo.

The Rev. W. V. Sharp, who has been pastor of the Church of the Nazarene since its organization here several years ago, preached his farewell sermon to the Gallon congregation yesterday morning. Rev. Mr. Sharp has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Church of the Nazarene at Xenia and will go there this week to assume his duties. The Gallon congregation has not chosen a successor to Rev. Mr. Sharp.

Miss Ruth Turner pastor of the Ontario church, was speaker at the morning service at First Methodist church yesterday morning. Miss Turner is the first woman preacher to occupy the pulpit of the local church and delivered a sermon of great interest to the large congregation.

"Times When God's Business Requires haste" was the subject used by Rev. E. C. Thompson at the Baptist church and at the United Brethren Rev. W. O. Montague had as his topic, "Rejoice in the Lord Always."

Regular services were held in the Baptist church by Rev. D. E. Miller yesterday. The regular pastor, however, as the Rev. Daniel Hamill planned to be away during the month of August on his vacation.

In the Pleasant Grove Church of Christ, located a short distance north-east of here, the Rev. W. R. Ellis conducted regular services. His morning topic was "Means of Spiritual Growth," and in the evening he preached on "Men Cannot Destroy God's Word."

CONDUCT PROGRAM
Young Women Preside for Program at Kenton Methodist Church

Kenton, Aug. 27.—Kenton young women who have just returned from the annual Lakeside Institute, were in charge of the program given in the First Methodist Episcopal church during the young people's hour last evening. The service opened to the public was patterned after the Lakeside gathering and the various speakers clearly outlined the work being done.

Miss Juanita McVey, graduate of the 1927 Institute class and at present institute secretary of the Delaware district, was chairman, with Miss Ruth Norton and Miss Mary Born, this year's graduates, giving the principal talks.

Local delegates to Lakeside were: Mary Born, Dorothy Hollowell, Ruth Palmer, Ruth Norton, Ruth McGinnis, Juanita McVey, Mrs. L. S. Haines, Gayle Barrett, Lois Eddy, Naomi Palmer, Catherine Louise Burkhardt and Katherine Marie Linta.

A record crowd attended union services in the First M. E. Church Sunday night, the gathering marking one of a series being held during the summer months under the direction of the Ministerial association. Rev. Ernest K. Ralston, pastor of the United Presbyterian church, spoke on "Daily Faith." Prof. Owen Roberts, director of the church choir, was in charge of the program of music.

Mrs. M. D. Baumgardner was soloist in the First Baptist church Sunday morning before the pastor, Rev. A. W. Snow, occupied the pulpit for both morning and evening worship, speaking on "Our Great Concerns" and "Education and Religion."

With the exception of the Bible school, services in St. John's Evangelical church were canceled Sunday because of the absence of the minister, the Rev. H. E. Pister, away on vacation. William Kreibitz was in charge of the Bible school.

SERVICES CLOSE

Held Last of Series of Union Meetings for Upper Sandusky Churches

Upper Sandusky, Aug. 27.—Union church services in charge of the Sunday School superintendents of the district churches in this city, were held in the English Lutheran church last night at 7:30 o'clock. Attorney John H. Clark, Marion, gave the address of the evening and there was special music under the direction of Mrs. George T. Demman. This service closed the series of union services which have been held each Sunday night for the past two months.

The union young people's services, which have been held each Sunday night at 6:30 during July and August, also closed last night with a meeting in the same church, and with Miss Alice Weaver as leader. Rev. W. H. Kibler, the church pastor, was in charge of regular morning services.

"The Glorious Gospel" was the theme of the Rev. C. H. Williamson's sermon Sunday morning at the Methodist church. Mr. Frederick H. Reiser and Miss Lottie Howey sang a duet, "The Man of Galilee," and the Rev. Harold W. Ruopp, Dayton, pronounced the benediction.

The topic for worship at the Christian Science Church was "Christ Jesus." There were no services at the First Presbyterian, Trinity Evangelical and Trinity Reformed churches.

TO RESUME SERVICES
Mt. Gilead Pastors To Hold Individual Services on Sunday Night

Mt. Gilead, Aug. 27.—"The Christian's Relation To The Community" was the topic of the Rev. J. C. Smith in the last union service for the summer last night in the Baptist church. The pastors have conducted a fairly successful series of union services over the summer months during the evening worship hour which combines the congregations during the weeks of light attendance. No pastor preached in his home church during any of the services.

Next Sunday will mark the beginning of the individual evening services in all churches, and also marks the beginning of the M. E. Epworth League and the M. E. Sunday School or church, both of which were discontinued during the summer. "The Task of the Church," was the Rev. J. C. Smith's morning topic in the M. E. Church.

Regular services were held in the Baptist church by Rev. D. E. Miller yesterday. The regular pastor, however, as the Rev. Daniel Hamill planned to be away during the month of August on his vacation.

In the Pleasant Grove Church of Christ, located a short distance north-east of here, the Rev. W. R. Ellis conducted regular services. His morning topic was "Means of Spiritual Growth," and in the evening he preached on "Men Cannot Destroy God's Word."

DISTRICT BRIEFS

KENTON—With the extremely hot weather believed definitely passed, plans are being completed for the opening of the Pastime bowling alley, Franklin, under the management and direction of Walter F. Richter. There is a possibility that a city league will be formed and it is definitely assured that a representative city team will be picked for matches with Marion, Lima, Findlay and Bellefontaine pin hitters. The three Pastime alleys are being conditional now for the season's opening.

BUCYRUS—The annual picnic of the B. P. stores was held Sunday at Secaucus park with about 75 present. The afternoon was spent in games, contests and swimming.

BUCYRUS—Mrs. W. Baker residing north of Bucyrus and her son, Earl, received minor injuries Saturday when their car collided with another while on their way to Michigan. The accident happened just west of Toledo. The car was badly wrecked.

BUCYRUS—King Cole's Entertainers closed their act at Secaucus park Sunday after a week's showing at that place. Several reunions including the Maxwell and Caldwell reunions were held the park Sunday.

BUCYRUS—Miss Nellie Kerkh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Ehrlich, 218 West Lucas st., who will represent "Miss Bucyrus" at the state beauty pageant at Cedar Point, August 28 left Sunday for the Lake Erie resort in company with her parents.

NEVAHA—Mrs. Cuba Phineas has accepted a position as bookkeeper for the Nevada Farmers' Grain company. Mrs. Phineas has held a position with the Nevada Telephone company for the past 15 years.

NEVAHA—Mrs. Esther Kunkell and son, Wilbur, expect to move to Springfield in the near future, where they will open a John F. Case Health Fume parlor.

BUCYRUS—W. S. Shields, 19, policeman at the National Lime & Stone Quarry at Spore, who was badly injured in a 15-foot fall to the bottom of the quarry pit Friday night, was reported to be in a favorable condition today. Mr. Shields is a son of Mrs. Joe Willie, of Bucyrus.

BUCYRUS—The Bucyrus horsemen team defeated the Lynn Thompson's team of Lorain at Lorain Sunday. The local team will go to Willard for a return game. Bucyrus defeated Willard several weeks ago. A week from Saturday a return game at Lorain will be played on the local course at East Mansfield st.

URBANA DEFEATED BY BUCYRUS TEAM

Game Played Saturday in Series for N. Y. C. Championship

Bucyrus, Aug. 27.—After having been defeated in the first four baseball games of a series of six elimination games for the championship of the New York Central league, the local New York Central team defeated the Urbana team on the Bucyrus Lane street field 3-4 Saturday afternoon.

Chief Sharrock pitched for the local first three innings. Flowers going to the mound for the remainder of the game.

A large crowd of fans attended the game.

Next Tuesday Bucyrus goes to Indianapolis for the last game in the series, meeting the strong Indianapolis nine there.

A faint heart is considered an easy mark for the leap-year girl.

KENTON ATTORNEY MAY ENTER RACE

Petitions List C. W. Faulkner as Probable Candidate for Court of Appeals

(Special To The Star)
Kenton, Aug. 27.—There is a possibility that Attorney C. W. Faulkner, Kenton, may enter the appellate court race in the third district by filing an independent candidate. Petitions bearing his name as a candidate for the bench are now being circulated and should a sufficient number of signatures be secured his name will appear on the November election ballot.

Following the primary, Attorney Faulkner announced his intentions of seeking the nomination on the Republican ticket but later withdrew, the nomination going to Charles A. Guernsey, of Findlay.

Opposing the two candidates will be Judge Phil M. Crow, Kenton, who is seeking a fourth term. Other members of the appellate court are Judge Kent W. Hughes, Lima, and Charles L. Justice, Marion, both Democrats.

The district over which the court presides embraces 16 counties, including Hardin and Marion counties.

CLUB MEETS

Nevada Members Get Year's Program at Picnic Meet

Nevada, Aug. 27.—The Current Events club held its annual picnic Friday afternoon at the home of Miss Hattie Fleming, Cook st. Thirteen members were present. Miss Amy Dixon came as the guest of Miss Mary Francis.

On account of rain the picnic was an indoor affair. A social afternoon was enjoyed, and a lunch was served at 6 o'clock.

The new programs for the coming year's work were distributed by Mrs. Etta Heintand, chairman of the program committee. The first meeting will be held Sept. 17, at the home of Mrs. Cuba Phineas.

MUST SLOW DOWN

Speed Limit 15 Miles Through Hardin County Village

KENTON, Aug. 27.—A long, has been waged controversy which has been waged between the Big Four railroad and the town of Bellecenter, south of here, has been renewed. It centers chiefly around the speed at which trains shall pass through the town.

Charging that the speed of trains is excessive the Bellecenter council has passed an ordinance forbidding a speed in excess of 15 miles per hour while passing through the city. And town officials have announced that the ordinance is to be rigidly enforced.

OLIVER P. LENOX, 79, DIES AT RICHWOOD

Rites for Well-Known Stock-buyer To Be Held Tuesday Afternoon

Richwood, Aug. 27.—Oliver P. Lenox, 79, well known elevator operator and stockholder, died Sunday night at the home of his son, R. W. Lenox, at this place. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Lenox home followed by interment in the Richwood cemetery.

MRS. MYRTLE MILLER DIES IN DETROIT

Rites for Former Kenton Woman Held This Afternoon at Funeral Home

JACOB BAUER BURIED

Kenton Tailor Succumbs in Brooklyn Hospital Following Operation

Kenton, Aug. 27.—At least three deaths were reported in and near Kenton during the week-end with last rites being conducted this afternoon. Funeral for Mrs. Emily Smith, widow of R. W. Smith, whose death occurred at her home in Ridgeway, was held this afternoon at the Ridgeway M. E. church in charge of the Rev. M. E. Rhodes and the Rev. C. W. Hallsell. Desher, she had been ill for 11 weeks.

A son, Harry Smith, and a stepson, James Smith, of Ridgeway, and two daughters, Mrs. Lillie Cottrell, Ridgeway, and Mrs. Effie Orth, west of Kenton, survive.

The remains of Mrs. Myrtle Miller, former Kenton resident whose death occurred at her home in Detroit, were buried this afternoon in Grove cemetery following funeral services. In the Thursday funeral home in charge of the Rev. C. J. Yensley, pastor of the First M. E. church.

The deceased was born in Marion county where she lived for many years. Two sons, Scott and Lloyd Miller, both of Detroit, and a brother, Joseph Gillespie, near LaPorte, survive.

News has been received here of the death of Jacob Bauer, 64, former Kenton business man, which occurred following an operation in a Brooklyn hospital. Mr. Bauer was a native of Germany, coming to America early in life. While in Kenton he was engaged as a tailor and later conducted a meat market. He was a member of the local lodge of Elks. A brother living in Brooklyn, where burial was made, survives.

What Will you doWhen your Children Cry
for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product; a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grownups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that baby becomes fretful, or restless. Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every drugstore has it.

A ROMANCE OF GRIPPING HUMAN INTEREST.

CHAPTER FORTY-TWO

BY WINIFRED VAN DUZER

LATER on Emily knew that no warning she might have given. Ken would have made any difference.

He had no illusions about Morrow and his crowd. Indeed it was quite evident he accepted their antagonism and liked it for he seemed determined to wage his warfare in the open.

And warfare it was as the months went by, reflected and exaggerated in convex mirrors by the Star and the Item.

The first shouting taunts at "Gal" Rossetter, Amateur Reformer, and the last printing triumphant editorials and commendatory letters from the public.

For the public was with him, on the whole. It wasn't a mere matter of putting out of business a few notorious resorts; it was the prospect of getting under a boss-driven condition for which there had seemed no help.

Those who had been hopeless and passive under Morrow's powerful organization came to life in a slow, startled manner and stood solidly behind Ken; they still were doubtful but eager to help.

Mysterious messages, all of them sincere enough but equally offering bits of quite useless information, always were coming to him; many solid citizens went out of their way to shake his hand and give him a word of encouragement.

Emily took to watching Morrow's windows from behind the curtains of the shop. A constant stream of those she now designated as "bunchmen" came and went; they gathered about the judge's desk and talked through shut teeth and pushing, forcible gestures.

Marty always was there, scowling ferociously; she fancied him a sort of super-henchman holding himself in readiness to jump at the judge's bidding.

The Star blared forth the charge that "Gal" was converting the office of prosecutor into that of prosecutor. And hinted that high-handers never long remained in public office.

And the Item, in black-face type, mockingly invited its competitor to prefer charges before the governor.

There were weeks when both papers went into extra editions and sent newsboys crying through the streets, a thing never before heard of in Lynn.

Some who gave a grudging admiration to Morrow declared he had written his own "finis" by an error of judgment. It got around that on two occasions, once in shocked surprise and the second time in a towering anger, he had sent for Rossetter. And that the young official had returned his business address on a slip of paper.

Once Emily saw old Tim Nolan climb the stairs across the street and stand before the littered desk, a meek enough looking little man with his bared, white head and the shapeless hat twisting in his hands. She wondered mightily had she heard.

Still she wouldn't have understood what words were passing.

"What's on your mind, Tim?" "Well, then, Mr. Morrow, your honor, or, for they do me closer, me out. Me near little joint forinist the river wear's a padlock the day. I'm tellin' that one 'twill be a sorry job when himself bears of it."

"Hard luck, Tim." "It is that."

"But you'll have to let it ride for a while. We'll get around to them presently."

The old lake-blue eyes took in the Boss; ran over the big, vexed figure in a sort of slow appraisal.

"You'll not be givin' the office till lay off, then?"

"Not right now, Tim. There's others kickin' besides yourself."

Enraged by the speculation in the little man's stare he hung out, "Hell, I'm doing all I can, ain't I? What you fellows want for a few loney dollars? You'll be taken care of, I tell you."

Tim left without a word but his very restraint was a question. The judge roared for Marty.

"What did you get?" "What would I get? You know that no one's getting anything on Rossetter. They weren't kidding when they called him Galahad."

"Sure about that, are you? Nothing you overlooked?"

Marty's eyes gleamed with comprehension but he shook his head. "Better not, Judge."

"Everybody's got a weak spot. How about that dizzy sister of his? Husk's kid skipped out, I hear."

Then Nolan retired behind his scowl. When he emerged it was to say in a business-like way, "I'll look up the sister."

The warfare continued. It was made the subject of sermons in the churches; congregations approved the district attorney by rising votes. The town grew actively partisan; street fights were a frequent occurrence.

And Emily watched from behind the shop curtains, feeling sometimes a twinge of anxiety, sometimes a glow of pride in Ken.

Spring came gently and while hostilities still went on both sides were quieter. Ken pursued a watchful policy and Morrow's crowd settled down to make the best of a bad situation.

Marty had looked up the sister but had found only gossip; nothing that could be used to tear down her brother's career.

There were those who said the Boss was losing his grip; certainly he was not so rough-shod as he had been. He seemed to have aged a great deal; there were new lines in his face and his hair had turned almost white.

Small, pinkish leaves were unfolding over the grape trellis. Kitten brushed them as she swung clear of the kitchen roof and dropped lightly to the ground.

Nearly a year now since she first had climbed out of the window this way; she was growing rather irked by it.

Of course there was allure in the adventure; stealing through the dark, the rapturous kiss of the man who awaited her.

Still it was beginning to be an old story; sometimes she fancied Nicky felt so too. He didn't seem to mind any more when she disappointed him.

There was nothing missing in his greeting tonight, however; he gathered her in his arms, pressing his lips to the burnished curls.

Such a long time! Weeks and weeks. Why wouldn't you come, Kitten-child? "Wasn't looking for trouble. You missed me, Nicky? Really?"

"Of course I did. There'll be no trouble."

But Kitten had no faith in that. Bianca Wickert had been quiet for a long time but it meant nothing. The girl was haunted by the memory of gleaming dark eyes and savage little teeth catching a red lip. She shivered.

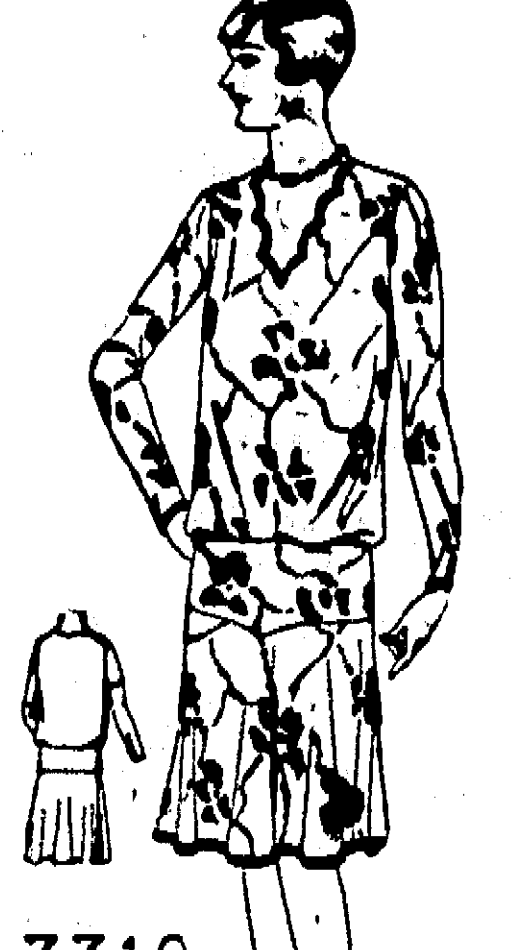

"Cold? Get something to warm you in a minute. Drive over to Deep Valley; there's a place for a night like this."

"You think it safe? Well—"

He laughed and kissed her again. To be continued.

Love's Awakening

THE HEART STORY OF A WOMAN'S AFFECTIONS

By ADRIAN GARRISON

Katie is dragged into a little conspiracy.

perception as she is temperamental. She wasted no words after her first glimpse of "Old" Alessio Graham, but when I told her that I must see her alone in her room before the rest of the family came in. With quick, deft movements she insured her dinner from burnin and then scurried up the back staircase ahead of me, throwing open the door to the room which she and Jim have occupied for so long.

"You see down?" She drew forward a chair, but I waved it back. "I haven't time. First I want you to promise me that you will not tell any one, even Jim, what I am going to ask you."

Into her eyes came the familiar gleam of thrilled excitement, and she raised her right hand melodramatically. I knew that I had taken the right course to insure Katie's fealty.

"I swear me on two tree stumps of Bibles," she said.

"Then listen. Mary dropped her case in the hall this morning and I picked it up before we left. There is a reason why Mr. Graham and I wished to look it over before letting her find it again—and I gave it to Mr. Graham. He did not know that you had looked in that place on the stairs where Junior used to stuff his toys, and he hid it in there after he came home. Now if Mary looks there as she is very likely to do, will you say that you didn't have a flash light with you or that your eyes are troubling you, or something of the sort, so that she will think it really was there all the time."

Katie's face clouded.

"My eyes, dey tip top," she said jealously, "and ven I look, I look. But—" she straightened herself and spread her hands magnanimously. "I guess I no shoop afterwards offer run little vile lie. Don't you worry, ven I'm more, Alessio. Shoos leave ex to Katie. I fees, and say nothings to nobody."

"I feel!" the cheery familiar phrase brought many memories of times when the woman looking eagerly at me had brought comfort to me in many a trying situation. I dropped my hand on her shoulder affectionately.

"I have. I could depend on you, Katie dear," I said. "Now go back to your kitchen, and I'll slip through these doors to my own room."

There are old-fashioned double doors leading from the wing over the kitchen in which the rooms of Katie and Jim are situated, and the main part of the second floor. I stole through them cautiously, feeling much like a house-breaker, and gained my own room without anyone seeing me. With the conviction that I needed a few minutes to nerve myself for the role of pleaser, I looked up my door, and hurrying off my clothing, took a quick ice cold sponge, scolded my hair and slipped on fresh lingerie and a thin gown with matching shoes and hose.

I could hear the voices of the rest of the party come into the corridor and then die away, and knew from their chatter that Dicky and Harry were headed for one shower, Mary and Marion for the other and that Lillian was probably following my method of refreshing up. My last injunction to Katie had been to delay the dressing for fifteen minutes, and when I finally came, we met in the dining room both refreshed and ravenous.

It was not until Katie was clearing away the dessert that Mary put the question I had nervously awaited during the dinner.

"Katie, did you say you looked in every corner of the hall and on the stairs for my case?"

"Katie, did you say you looked in every corner of the hall and on the stairs for my case?"

"Katie, did you say you looked in every corner of the hall and on the stairs for my case?"

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

YESTERDAY was Sunday, and it was more sun than day. The sweat dripped off my nose even as early as when I let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth, and when I got out in the yard with the milk pail Jubilee wasn't running around for exercise.

The whole bunch and the girls were in the barn whilst I was milking except the Lost Bag of Tripe, and I was working hard so's to get done as soon as I could when all at once everything became still, and I looked around and everyone's eyes was bugging out of their heads, and the Lost Bag of Tripe had come, and his dog was standing in the middle of the barn with white foam sticking all around his mouth, and then things began to happen.

Younis started up the ladder to the loft, and skinnymedink axxie, the girl that got fascinated on her leg, so it wouldn't show, clumb right up the ladder and over Younis and got to the loft first, and Banty and Nita got stuck in the manure hole, and I jumped up and got between Jubilee and the Lost Bag of Tripe's mut, and Feeble was standing between the mut and Hopper, which is our crit.

Hopper had his critch ready to bean the dog with and the rest of the bunch with their dogs was gone, and then the mut looked up at me and wagged his tail, and I knew if he was mad he wouldn't wag his tail, so I patted him on the head. Then I was close enough to see that the foam was cotton, and then the Lost Bag of Tripe made a break for the door, but Hopper's critch got between his feet and he fell down with me on top of him, and we got the critch against his neck and made him swallow the cotton. We couldn't do it till I gave him some milk out of the pail to wash it down with. The milk hadn't been strained. He didn't look so funny after that. Then I went to see did my face and got washed for Sunday school. My art worked out the purposed. She says I wasn't any good.

We got to Sunday school early and the paper was waiting at his desk, and he got me a letter from his mom and dad. "This paper is early, and you had better be careful of your work," and she had written her hands and feet and held in over the hot bath and turned the bottle upside down on it, and she wiped his neck with it, and he said: "That's both nice and cool," so she wiped his forehead and both cheeks, and he never looked up, and then we all went out to play under the tree off near the barn, and going by the barn and we went in Feeble had skunk out, and the water almost broke up the Sunday school. He had not seen who done it, and we all said nobody there had done it, and he had to go home, and he was mad. When he had went Feeble came in with her hands clasped and her eyes down, looking like an angel. The folks that gets married to her will be busy. Today was Monday. Nothing happened.

They Called Her Scrawny But Not for Long

Is your face drawn and pinched? Your skin flabby? Are your cheeks sunken with great hollows under the eyes? Down your figure show unbecoming angles instead of the softly rounded silhouettes of youth?

All these conditions rob you of attractiveness and make you look old. But never fear! These may actually be the signs of a lack of simple accessories—that you are deficient in one or more of the following:

There's nothing so good as McCoy's Tablets to get you from flabby, round, red face and figure and build up rich, red blood.
